

Game Rules

Setting Up The Game - You will need a big table, your favorite beer, wine, or mixed drink, four or more people (they must be wild and crazy). The perfect group would be 6 to 8 people.

Playing The Game - The youngest player begins the game by drawing an I've Never...? Bar Card and reading the question aloud. Once the question is read and the player performs the "If True" or "If Not True" action, their turn is over and the player to his/her right goes next. For example: Question: I've never had sex on a waterbed? If True: No drink, and If Not True: Take a drink! Sometimes players may lie, a player caught in a lie (at least two other players must agree to the accusation) is punished (e.g. finish his/her drink, do a shot, kiss the bartender, etc.). Use your imagination!

FAQ - Question: When playing the I've Never...? Bar Card game, how big of a drink do you have to take? Answer: That's entirely up to you. You can take a big swig or a small sip.

Question: When answering the I've Never...? question, do all of the players answer the question or just the one reading the question? Answer: Only the person reading the question gets to answer it! However, there are some "All Play", "All Girls", and "All Guys" questions. For example: Question: All Girls - I've never used a vibrator? - in this example, all of the girls playing the game will have to answer the question and perform the action.
